

Patricia Udaondo Mirete, MD

President, AIKEN Foundation
University of Valencia, Spain

Dr. Patricia Udaondo Mirete is a physician based in Spain and President of the AIKEN Foundation, where she leads initiatives focused on advancing healthcare innovation, education, and patient-centered care. Through her leadership, she is committed to fostering interdisciplinary collaboration and supporting the development of impactful healthcare programs with a strong social and clinical relevance.

She is affiliated with the University of Valencia, where she contributes to academic and institutional activities aligned with medical education and research. Her work reflects a strong dedication to bridging clinical practice, academic advancement, and organizational leadership in healthcare.

Dr. Udaondo Mirete's professional focus centers on strengthening healthcare systems through innovation, collaboration, and education, with an emphasis on improving outcomes and supporting the next generation of medical professionals.

