Cardiff Metropolitan University, United Kingdom

Dr. Sandeep Buddha is a Consultant Stroke Physician at North Bristol NHS Trust, working within the Comprehensive Stroke Centre at Southmead Hospital in the United Kingdom. His clinical practice is focused on acute stroke management, hyperacute interventions, and multidisciplinary stroke care within a high-volume tertiary referral centre.

Alongside his clinical responsibilities, he serves as Lead for Stroke Delivery for NHS portfolio studies and is actively involved in clinical research as a Principal Investigator and collaborator in multicentre stroke trials. His research interests include endovascular stroke therapy, antithrombotic strategies, and post-stroke recovery and rehabilitation.

Dr. Buddha is committed to advancing evidence-based stroke care through clinical research, service innovation, and multidisciplinary collaboration within the NHS. He has a strong interest in improving stroke pathways and translating research findings into clinical practice to enhance patient outcomes.

He is also actively engaged in fostering international medical partnerships and supporting global knowledge exchange in stroke medicine, contributing to the development of high-quality stroke services across diverse healthcare systems.
